FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY.

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY.

New York, Feb. 16.—Rejection by the Washington administration of the allies' Adriatic plan came as a great surprise to the financial community and the stock market session today, resulting in many new low records for the current period. Exchange reflected the tense international situation, the London quotation failing considerably under its recent recovery.

Another adverse development over the recess was the showing made by the federal reserve banks. The local institution reported a further loss of reserve which fell to a level approximating the recent unfavorable exhibit.

The latter situation bore directly upon the money market, time funds again disappearing almost entirely, despite last week's predictions of approaching improvement. Call loans were easy, however, opening at 7 per cent, and declining to 6 per cent, in the early afternoon.

WORK AMONG CHINESE TOLD OF BY LOCAL "Y" REPRESENTATIVE The following letter was recently received by Secretary Edwin E. Hill of the Norwich Y. M. C. A., from Robert W. Clark, of China, who is the representative in that country, sent there by the local "Y." His letter, which tells of his work in that country will no doubt interest those who have been watching events in that Paotingfu, North China, Jan. 1, 1920.

My dear Hill:—Happy New Year to you! That will probably be out of date by the time this letter reaches you, but as the Chinese New Year doesn't come the year till February 20, we can count it as a Chinese New Year greeting. The old Chinese calendar, you know, is lunar instead of solar, and the New Year may occur any time between the middle of January and the last of February. It was originally supposed to be the first new moon after the winter solistice, I believe. The months are strictly lunar which makes them in general 29 and 30 days alternately. Twelve months generally make a year, but about every third year an extra about every third year an extra month is intercalated to make up the shortage. The Gregor an "al-edar has been adopted officially and is sed in the government off a and chools, but the common peon's still schools, but the common peon still stick to the old ways. The New Year is the great holday of the rear, and all business practically ceases for two weeks. Everyone goes home, and they all eat meat, even if they have to go without it the rest of the year to make up for it (and lots of them do). One fine custom is that all debts must be paid before New Year's Day, but unfortunately it cannot be enforced strictly.

We spent the greater part of No-vember in the south at the employed officers' conference at Hangchow. Four of us went, Hubbard, Wang, Liu, and I, leaving only the teachers here to keep things running. We Lu, and I, leaving only the teachers here to keep things running. We had a good conference and a very pleasant trip. There were present 55 foreign and 110 Chinese secretaries, which represents about half of our forces in China. I am inclosing an interesting clipping from the Shanghai China Press about the personnel.
